Sydney is from New Orleans, Louisiana. She is currently a sophomore double majoring in Neuroscience and Communications and minoring in Psychology. Her research interests include African-American psychology and racial disparities in mental health treatments and services. Sydney is eager to intern with Women With A Vision, Inc. to learn and teach high school students about topics such as Black Feminism, Reproductive Rights and Justice, and the intersectionality of being a Black female. On campus, she is involved with Green Wave Ambassadors, Students Organizing Against Racism, and The Office of Multicultural Affairs.
